

Provost Grade XL

Online record keeping made simple!

Key Features

Instructor Gradebook

- Grades scored for only those assignments the student has attempted
- Easy-to-use weighting-capable tool to support different weights for each category or assignment
- Class dropdown so instructors can grade multiple classes without switching pages
- Export to text, Excel, or printer-friendly formats from any view
- Ability to view student attempts history
- Ability to attach notes and files to each student's report card

Flexible Grading Views

- Detailed views by student and assignment

Provost Grade XL can help students see their grades on an assignment-by-assignment basis, as well as cumulatively, by course.

Instructors will appreciate the time-saving interface, which allows them to switch from course to course immediately, move columns of grades together for comparison, and even attach notes to graded assignments in their gradebook.

Provost Grade XL

Provost Grade XL is a web-based gradebook for high schools and post-secondary institutions. Instructors can post and track student grades, automatically calculate averages, and easily access a broad view of student and class histories. Students benefit from Provost Grade XL through instant access to report cards and individual progress directly from their learning system home page.

Switch between courses without switching pages.

With Provost Grade XL, there's no need for instructors to navigate through multiple pages just to manage grades across courses. Instead, to switch courses, instructors can simply select a course from a drop-down list which is always present. Instructors can also zoom in on a specific term, hide or arrange columns, and see side-by-side comparisons of students' assignments and grades.

Since courses are easier to grade this way, instructors can finish more quickly.

Use the grading schema your students expect.

With some other products, a student's current grade may not be displayed accurately, especially when all tests become factored into the student's grade — even the tests the student has not yet taken.

With Provost Grade XL, however, you get an easy-to-read grading format that shows the cumulative grade for only those tests and assignments the student has currently completed. Students and their parents can see the student's up-to-date grades, too.

In addition, Provost Grade XL offers an array of weighting-capable tools such as Weight by Category, Weight by Item and Weight by Point, to give you the control you need in assigning grade values to specific tests and assignments.

Attach notes to student report cards.

If you multiply your instructors' courses by the number of students in each course, you'll see how nearly impossible it is for instructors to remember why a certain paper received a certain grade, or what a student's improvements or problem areas were throughout a certain course.

With Provost Grade XL, your instructors can attach notes and files to each student's report card. This makes it ideal for adding praise, suggestions or words of encouragement to a student, and provides the instructor with a history on each student's academic performance as well.

Instructional Supervisors can oversee student progress.

Provost Grade XL gives Instructional Supervisors (Academic Advisors) a convenient interface for viewing and verifying their students' grades, and to see, at a glance, a student's performance across all of his or her courses.

Seamlessly integrates to Blackboard.

Provost Grade XL can be added as a building block to Blackboard, or can function independently through the Provost user interface. Assignments and tests created in Blackboard are automatically populated in Provost Grade XL.

When used within Blackboard, Provost Grade XL provides an additional interface to your existing information to make it more user-friendly to both instructor and student alike. Instructors who want to use the existing Blackboard Gradebook can continue to do so, while those who want to use Provost Grade XL can do so as well.

This means you can implement Provost Grade XL at any time of the year to take advantage of its many benefits, with no interruption to the collection of grade information, and with no interruption of service to your students or staff.
